

Thomas Palmer
Retirement Practice Leader, Towers Watson

Thomas joined the Echo Foundation Board in 2015 after working with the Foundation in 2014. He moved to Charlotte in 1998 and has 25 years of service with Towers Watson, a leading global professional services company specializing in risk management and human resource consulting. Thomas graduated from Cornell University but does not miss upstate New York winters. His local and national charitable interests include but are not limited to: Arts for Life, Blue Ridge Parkway Foundation, Children International, Council for Children's Rights, Habitat for Humanity, Heifer International, Second Harvest Food Bank of Metrolina, and Smile Train.
